NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION

TO ALL PARTIES AND THEIR COUNSEL OF RECORD:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT on August 31, 2023, at 9:00 a.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard before the Honorable Beth Labson Freeman in Courtroom 1 of the United States District Court for the Northern District of California in San Jose, located at 280 South 1st St, San Jose, California, defendants Eversheds Sutherland (US) LLP, Ian Shelton, and Sarah Paul, Ashby Law Firm P.C., Sergenian Ashby LLP and Joseph Ashby (“Defendants”) will, and hereby do, move this Court for an order imposing sanctions against Plaintiff David Bernahl, his counsel Nevin P. Miller, and the law firm of Hudson Martin PC, pursuant to Rule 11(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, for the filing of Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint. Specifically, Defendants seek an order awarding sanctions, dismissing the Second Amended Complaint with prejudice, awarding attorneys’ fees and costs incurred by Defendants as a result of violations of Rule 11, and granting such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Defendants bring this motion on the grounds that Plaintiff and his counsel violated Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure by willfully presenting to the Court a Second Amended Complaint that: (i) claims federal jurisdiction despite lacking any evidentiary support for diversity jurisdiction and no legal support for federal question jurisdiction; (ii) presents legal claims that are not warranted under existing law in violation of Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(b)(3); and (iii) was filed for an improper purpose in violation of Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(b)(1).

The Motion is based on this Notice of Motion and Motion, the accompanying Memorandum of Points and Authorities, supporting declarations, Request for Judicial Notice, any oral argument of counsel at the hearing on the Motion, and any other matters of which the Court may take judicial notice. This Motion is filed in compliance with Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(c)(2).

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11, defendants Eversheds Sutherland (US) LLP, Ian Shelton and Sarah Paul (“Eversheds Defendants”) and defendants Ashby Law Firm P.C., Sergenian Ashby LLP and Joseph Ashby (“Ashby Defendants”) (collectively, “Defendants”) respectfully seek an order imposing sanctions against plaintiff David Bernahl and his counsel, Nevin Miller and the Hudson Martin law firm, for bringing this action they know to be outside the jurisdiction of this Court and to be legally without merit and for refusing to voluntarily dismiss the frivolous action.

Plaintiff’s Second Amended Complaint alleges abuse of process and related claims based on the allegation that Defendants failed to provide him with notice of certain subpoenas Defendants obtained in the United States pursuant to 28 U.S.C. section 1782. As Defendants have made clear to Plaintiff, this Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction: there is no diversity, and no federal question jurisdiction. Further, no reasonable attorney would conclude these claims are well-founded after a reasonable inquiry. The allegations fail to state a claim, since there is no cause of action for failure to comply with the federal rules of procedure; and the claims are barred by California’s comprehensive litigation privilege and the statute of limitations. Lastly, the circumstances of this proceeding, including the frivolousness of the claims, demonstrate that the complaint was brought for an improper purpose.

Plaintiff’s action is frivolous, and this Court should issue Rule 11 sanctions against him and his attorneys.

II. FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

A. Underlying Proceedings in Latvia

This action has its genesis in legal proceedings in Latvia (“Latvian Proceedings”) related to the divorce of Plaintiff’s current wife, Santa Bernahl (“Santa”), and Santa’s ex-husband Olegs Fils (“Fils”), in which Fils accused Santa of engaging in an extramarital affair with Plaintiff. On September 23, 2020, Fils filed an ex parte application in

1 the district court for the Central District of California pursuant to 28 U.S.C. section 1782 (“§
 2 1782 Application”) for an order authorizing service of subpoenas duces tecum to obtain 3 discovery from third-party merchants for use in the Latvian Proceedings. (Second Am.
 4 Compl. ¶ 46; see also id. ¶ 29, Ex. D.) Fils filed similar § 1782 Applications for subpoenas 5 duces tecum in the Northern District of California and Southern District of New York, 6 seeking discovery from third-party merchants in those districts. (Id., Exs. C, E-1.) Fils was 7 represented by Defendants in the § 1782 Application proceedings.¹ (Id., Exs. C, D, E-1.)

8 On October 6, 2020, the district court in the Central District of California 9 granted Fils’ § 1782 Application, permitting Fils to subpoena records from two hotels located 10 in the district. Req. Jud. Not. (“RJN”), Ex. 1. On January 11, 2021, the district court in the 11 Northern District of California granted Fils’ § 1782 Application to issue seven revised 12 subpoenas to third-party merchants, permitting Fils to subpoena information concerning 13 Santa’s infidelity and the amounts that Santa spent on Plaintiff, her then-lover (now husband).
 14 RJN, Ex. 2. Fils’ § 1782 Application for subpoenas duces tecum in the Southern District of 15 New York was also granted. RJN, Ex. 3 .

16 These subpoenas were not served on Plaintiff (who was not a party to any 17 proceeding) or Santa, but Santa subsequently attested that she became aware of the subpoenas 18 issued by the court in the Northern District on March 25, 2021, after Plaintiff ran a Google 19 search of his name. RJN, Ex. 4 at p. 3:4-5; Ex. 5 at p. 3:4-5. Santa further attested that 20 “[a]fter [Plaintiff] became aware of the[se] subpoenas, . . . he contacted the companies 21 subpoenaed and asked for copies of the documents they provided,” and that one entity 22 provided the information requested. RJN, Ex. 4 at p. 3:8-10; Ex. 5 at p. 3:8-10. Santa noted 23 that the subpoena to this entity “was signed by attorney Joseph Ashby and sent from his 24 office with the knowledge that the subpoenas were being served on third parties prior to 25 service to [Santa].” RJN, Ex. 4 at p. 3:13-15; Ex. 5 at p. 3:13-15.

27 ¹ Eversheds Defendants represented Fils in connection with his § 1782 Applications filed in the 28 Central District of California and the Southern District of New York; Ashby Defendants represented Fils in connection with his § 1782 Application filed in the Northern District of California. (See Second Am. Compl. ¶ 29, Exs. C, D, E 1-3.)

1 Santa attested that she became aware of the remaining subpoenas around June 2 3, 2021, when Fils submitted information received from the subpoenas in the Latvian 3 Proceedings. RJN, Ex. 4 at p. 3:5-7; Ex. 5 at p. 3:5-7.

4 On February 9, 2022, the Latvian court entered judgment against Santa in the 5 approximate amount of $4.7 million. RJN, Ex. 9 at p. 2:10-12.

6 B. Santa's Motions for Relief Alleging Failure to Serve Subpoenas Denied by 7 District Courts

8 On March 25, 2022, Santa, represented by attorney Nevin Miller at Hudson 9 Martin, PC (counsel for Plaintiff in the instant action), filed motions to reopen the case in 10 both the Northern and Central District courts on the ground that "[Fils] and his attorneys 11 failed to serve or give prior notice to [Santa] of the non-party subpoenas." RJN, Ex. 6 at p.
12 6:5-6; Ex. 8 at p. 4:5-6. Santa also filed motions to quash the subpoenas that the Courts had 13 issued more than a year earlier, claiming that she was objecting to the subpoenas "based on 14 the fact that the subpoenas were not served on her as required by Fed. R. Civ. P. 45." RJN, 15 Ex. 6 at p. 4:6-7; Ex. 7 at p. 4:11-12. In the motions to quash, Santa also sought sanctions 16 "against Fils and/or his attorneys for failure to serve Santa Bernahl . . . deposition subpoenas 17 of non-party witnesses as required by Fed. R. Civ. P. 45." RJN, Ex. 6 at p. 2:3-4; Ex. 7 at p.
18 2:1-2.

19 On April 29, 2022, the district court in the Northern District denied Santa's 20 motion to reopen the case as untimely and terminated her motion to quash as moot. RJN, Ex.
21 11. In its order denying Santa's motions, the court noted that despite learning of the third-22 party subpoenas on March 25, 2021, Santa waited one year to file her Rule 60(b)(3) motion to 23 vacate, and thus, she was not prevented from filing her motion to vacate due to her lack of 24 notice. Id. at pp. 3-4. The court further observed that Santa did not file any objections to the 25 Latvian court's consideration of the evidence obtained through the § 1782 subpoenas. Id. at 26 p. 2.

27 On May 27, 2022, Santa, still represented by Mr. Miller, filed a motion for a 28 new trial under Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Rule 52(b), 59(a), 59(e) and 60(b) in the district court in the Northern District. RJN, Ex. 10. Santa argued, inter alia, that her motion

1 to quash and for sanctions was not moot, claiming that sanctions were appropriate because 2 the conduct of “Fils and his attorneys . . . was without colorable basis and undertaken in bad 3 faith, i.e., motivated by improper purposes.” Id. at p. 8:4-6. On July 5, 2022, the district 4 court denied Santa’s motion for new trial. RJN, Ex. 11.

5 On March 13, 2023, the district court in the Central District of California 6 denied Santa’s motions to reopen the case and quash subpoenas on the ground that the 7 motions were untimely. RJN, Ex. 12. In so ruling, the court observed that, although the basis
 8 for Santa’s motion was that she did not receive notice of the subpoenas, Santa herself 9 admitted that, on June 3, 2021, she became aware of the court’s October 2020 order granting 10 Fils’ § 1782 Application for issuance of third-party subpoenas. Id. at p. 4. Yet, the court 11 noted, Santa delayed filing the motion for relief until March 25, 2022. Id.

12 C. Plaintiff’s Current Complaint

13 On January 31, 2023, Plaintiff filed his initial complaint in this action.² On 14 February 6, 2023, Plaintiff obtained leave to file the operative Second Amended Complaint, 15 which added Sergenian Ashby, LLP as a defendant. (Dk. No. 13.)

16 In the Second Amended Complaint, Plaintiff asserts four claims for relief 17 against Defendants: (1) abuse of process for allegedly engaging in coordinated effort to 18 obtain discovery through third-party subpoenas without notice to Plaintiff (§§ 45-47, 49-51); 19 (2) invasion of privacy for subpoenaing private and confidential documents from third-20 parties, which materials “intruded on Plaintiff’s solitude or private affairs” (§§ 55-57); (3) 21 declaratory relief seeking a declaration that the third-party subpoenas issued in the federal 22 district courts are null and void and that, under Rule 45 of the Federal Rules of Civil 23 Procedure, Defendants were required to serve Plaintiff and Santa (who is not a party here) 24 before service on the third-party entities (§§ 63-66); and (4) intentional infliction of emotional 25 distress caused by Defendants’ alleged misconduct in their handling of the third-party

26
 27 ² Plaintiff apparently attempted to file the complaint on January 27, 2023, but it was rejected due 28 to noncompliance with Local Rule 3-4(a) and conflicting addresses on the civil cover sheet and in ECF. (See Dk. Nos. 1-2.) For additional procedural history leading to the filing of the Second Amended Complaint, see Plaintiff’s Motion for Leave to Amend Complaint, filed February 6, 2023. (Dk. No. 12.)

1 subpoenas (§§ 68-71).

2 On February 27, 2023, Defendants' counsel sent a letter to Plaintiff's counsel 3 requesting immediate dismissal of the action with prejudice. Declaration of Merri A.
4 Baldwin ("Baldwin Decl."), ¶ 2, Ex. A. The letter identified, inter alia, several fatal 5 deficiencies in the complaint that rendered it frivolous and subject to Rule 11 sanctions. Id.
6 Plaintiff's counsel, however, refused to dismiss the complaint. Id., ¶ 3, Ex. B. On March 27, 7 2023, Defendants served the requisite Rule 11 notice and copy of this motion and supporting 8 papers on Plaintiff in compliance with Rule 11(c)(2). Id., ¶ 5.

9 III. LEGAL STANDARD

10 "Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11 provides for the imposition of sanctions 11 when a filing is frivolous, legally unreasonable, or without factual foundation, or is brought 12 for an improper purpose." Estate of Blue v. County of Los Angeles, 120 F.3d 982, 985 (9th 13 Cir. 1997). As the Ninth Circuit has explained, "Rule 11 addresses two separate problems: 14 first, the problem of frivolous filings; and second, the problem of misusing judicial 15 procedures as a weapon for personal or economic harassment." Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Alla 16 Medical Servs., Inc., 855 F.2d 1470, 1475 (9th Cir. 1988) (internal quotation marks omitted).
17 Under Ninth Circuit precedent, a filing that is "baseless and made without a reasonable and 18 competent inquiry" is "frivolous." Townsend v. Holman Consulting Corp., 929 F.2d 1358, 19 1362 (9th Cir. 1990). A motion may be deemed to have been filed for an "improper purpose" 20 when it "is filed in the context of a persistent pattern of clearly abusive litigation activity."
21 Aetna Life Ins., 855 F.2d at 1476. Moreover, although the frivolous and improper purpose 22 standards are "separate and distinct," in many cases the inquiries will overlap because 23 "evidence bearing on frivolousness or non-frivolousness will often be highly probative of 24 purpose." Townsend, 929 F.2d at 1362; see e.g., Rodriguez v. United States, 542 F.3d 704, 25 709 (9th Cir. 2008) ("A frivolous case is one that is groundless ... with little prospect of 26 success; often brought to embarrass or annoy the defendant." [Citation.]").

27 A finding of subjective bad faith or willfulness is not required for imposition of 28 Rule 11 sanctions, and counsel has been sanctioned for negligent mistakes. See Zaldivar v.

1 City of Los Angeles, 780 F.2d 823, 829 (9th Cir. 1986), abrogated on other grounds by 2 Cooter & Gell v. Hartmarx Corp., 496 U.S. 384, 399-400 (1990) (a finding of subjective bad

14 IV. ARGUMENT

15 A. Sanctions Are Warranted Because Plaintiff’s Assertion of Federal 16 Jurisdiction Is Frivolous.

17 When, as here, a “complaint is the primary focus of Rule 11 proceedings, a 18 district court must conduct a two-prong inquiry to determine (1) whether the complaint is 19 legally or factually ‘baseless’ from an objective perspective, and (2) if the attorney has 20 conducted ‘a reasonable and competent inquiry’ before signing and filing it.” Christian v.
 21 Mattel, Inc., 286 F.3d 1118, 1127 (9th Cir. 2002). Both prongs are easily satisfied here, and 22 Defendants respectfully urge the Court to impose sanctions to deter Plaintiff and his counsel 23 from further pursuing this frivolous claim in this or any other court.

24 1. Plaintiff’s assertion of diversity jurisdiction is factually baseless and 25 made without a reasonable and competent inquiry.

26 Plaintiff claims federal jurisdiction on the basis of an alleged federal question.
 27 as well as diversity of citizenship under 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a). (Second Am. Compl. ¶ 17.)
 28 Neither basis is viable, as the most minimal inquiry would have revealed, but Plaintiff’s claim

1 of diversity jurisdiction is particularly egregious.

2 As a threshold matter, a party claiming diversity jurisdiction must affirmatively 3 allege the state of citizenship of each party. See Bautista v. Pan American World Airlines, 4 Inc., 828 F.2d 546, 552 (9th Cir. 1987). Plaintiff does not do so here. In fact, Plaintiff's 5 Second Amended Complaint contains no allegation of the citizenship of any of the 6 defendants, a fatal defect in establishing diversity jurisdiction.

7 Next, diversity jurisdiction requires complete diversity, meaning that Plaintiff, 8 a California citizen, must be of different citizenship than all defendants. Pullman Co. v.
9 Jenkins, 305 U.S. 534, 541 (1939); see also Exxon Mobil Corp. v. Allapattah Servs., Inc., 545 10 U.S. 546, 562 (2005). Any instance of common citizenship between Plaintiff and any 11 defendant prevents federal diversity jurisdiction. Wisconsin Dept. of Corrections v. Schacht, 12 524 U.S. 381, 388 (1998). There is no complete diversity in this case because at least the 13 following four defendants are California citizens: Joseph Ashby, Ashby Law Firm P.C., 14 Sergenian Ashby LLP, and Eversheds Sutherland (US) LLP.

15 Even the most cursory internet search would have revealed that defendants 16 Joseph Ashby, his current law firm, Ashby Law Firm P.C., and his prior firm, Sergenian 17 Ashby LLP, a dissolved entity, are all California citizens. See Declaration of Joseph R.
18 Ashby ("Ashby Decl."), ¶¶ 2-3, 5.³ Further, the publicly accessible website of Eversheds 19 Sutherland (US) LLP reflects that it has multiple partners practicing in its California offices, 20 meaning that Eversheds Sutherland (US) LLP is also a California citizen for purposes of 21 diversity jurisdiction. Declaration of Ian Shelton, ¶¶ 2-3. See Carden v. Arkoma Associates, 22 494 U.S. 185, 189 (1990) (a limited partnership treated as having the citizenship of all its 23 partners; accord Johnson v. Columbia Properties Anchorage, LP, 437 F.3d 894, 899 (9th Cir.
24 2006) (following Carden, 494 U.S. at 189).

25
26 ³ California State Bar record for Mr. Ashby shows that his firm, Ashby Law Firm P.C., is located 27 in Los Angeles, California. Ashby Decl., ¶ 4, Ex. 1. Moreover, the caption pages of the 28 documents that the Ashby Defendants filed on behalf of their client, Fils, in the proceedings in the Northern District of California—including those that are attached as exhibits to Plaintiff's Second Amended Complaint—also list Los Angeles addresses for Mr. Ashby and his current and prior firms. See Second Am. Compl., Exs. E-1, E-2; see also Ashby Decl., ¶¶ 3, 5.

In sum, Plaintiff's assertion of diversity jurisdiction is factually baseless. This, coupled with the fact that Plaintiff's counsel failed to make even the minimal effort, let alone a "reasonable and competent inquiry," Townsend, 929 F.2d at 1362, warrant Rule 11 sanctions against Plaintiff and his counsel under Rule 11(b)(2) and (3). See, e.g., Hendrix v. Naphtal, 971 F.2d 398, 400 (9th Cir. 1992) (attorney's failure to conduct a reasonable investigation of the client's domicile breached attorney's Rule 11 obligations and gave rise to Rule 11 sanctions; district court's award of sanctions under Rule 11 affirmed); see also Marcus v. Alexandria Real Estate Equities, Inc., No. 2:21-cv-08088-SB-SK, 2022 WL 2815904, at *3-*5 (C.D. Cal. May 3, 2022) (Rule 11 sanctions in the amount of $50,000 appropriate where plaintiff's counsel failed to conduct an adequate inquiry into whether assertion of diversity jurisdiction was proper); Belleville Catering Co. v. Champaign Market Place, L.L.C., 350 F.3d 691, 692 (7th Cir. 2003) (counsel's failure to verify diversity of citizenship allegation "confesses a violation of Fed. R. Civ. P. 11").

2. Plaintiff's assertion of federal question jurisdiction is also frivolous because it runs contrary to established law.

Federal courts have jurisdiction over actions "arising under the Constitution, laws, or treaties of the United States." 28 U.S.C. § 1331. This general federal question statute is narrowly construed: it is not enough that a case merely "arises under" federal law. Verlinden B.V. v. Central Bank of Nigeria, 461 U.S. 480, 494-95 (1983). Rather, for federal question jurisdiction, there must be a "substantial" question of federal law, one that is not immaterial or frivolous. Bell v. Hood, 327 U.S. 678, 682-83 (1946). As with other "claims, defenses, and . . . legal contentions," plaintiff's assertion of federal question jurisdiction must be "warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for extending, modifying, or reversing existing law or for establishing new law ..." Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(b)(2). Filing a complaint known to be lacking in subject matter jurisdiction is sanctionable under Rule 11. See Orange Production Credit Ass'n v. Frontline Ventures Ltd., 792 F.2d 797, 801 (9th Cir. 1986) (affirming Rule 11 sanctions for filing complaint in federal district court without legal foundation for subject matter jurisdiction).

Here, Plaintiff's assertion of federal question jurisdiction is founded on the theory that Defendants intentionally abused the process of the federal courts by failing to serve the third-party subpoenas in accordance with Rule 45 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. (See Second Am. Compl., ¶¶ 17, 34-43.) The federal question, Plaintiff's counsel contends, is whether under 28 U.S.C. § 1331, Defendants were required to serve Plaintiff with the subpoenas prior to serving them on the subpoenaed third-parties. See Baldwin Decl., ¶ 3, Ex. B at p. 2. Plaintiff's contention is untenable and is not "warranted by existing law," as Rule 11 requires. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(b)(2).

First, Plaintiff's allegation that Defendants violated Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 45 is of no moment for jurisdictional purposes: the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure can neither "expand the jurisdiction of the district courts" nor "create jurisdiction where none exists." United States v. Suntip Co., 82 F.3d 1468, 1474 (9th Cir. 1996) (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 82 and United States v. Sherwood, 312 U.S. 584, 589-90 (1941)); see also Owen Equipment & Erection Co. v. Kroger, 437 U.S. 365, 370 (1978) ("it is axiomatic that the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure do not create or withdraw federal jurisdiction"); Nutraceutical Corp. v. Lambert, __ U.S. __, 139 S. Ct. 710, 714 (2019) (a time limitation found in a procedural rule was "properly classified as a nonjurisdictional claim-processing rule"); Hamer v. Neighborhood Housing Servs. of Chicago, __ U.S. __, 138 S. Ct. 13, 17 (2017) ("Only Congress may determine a lower federal court's subject-matter jurisdiction."). Plaintiff's theory therefore rests on an elementary misunderstanding of federal procedure and does not support jurisdiction.

Second, it is long-settled that an abuse of process claim based on an alleged violation of federal rules does not create federal question jurisdiction. See Wheeldin v. Wheeler, 373 U.S. 647, 650-52 (1963) (holding that federal court did not have jurisdiction over abuse of process claim arising from alleged misuse of a congressional subpoena because abuse of process was a state claim and federal courts did not have the power to create a federal common law claim for abuse of process despite the federal nature of the subpoena). As the Supreme Court noted in Wheeldin nearly 60 years ago: "it is difficult for us to see how

1 the present [federal] statute, which only grants power to issue subpoenas, implies a cause of 2 action for abuse of that power. Congress has not . . . left to federal courts the creation of a 3 federal common law for abuse of process.” Id. at 651-52. This jurisdictional principle has 4 not changed since. See Blaha v. Rightscorp, Inc., No. CV 14–9032 DSF (JCGx), 2015 WL
 5 4776888, at *1 (C.D. Cal. May 8, 2015) (rejecting plaintiff’s claim that his abuse of process 6 claim was a federal claim “‘aris[ing] under’ federal law because it involves abuse of a process 7 (subpoenas) permitted by a particular federal statute” (parenthetical in original)).

8 Other federal courts that have addressed jurisdictional issues in abuse of 9 process cases have reached the same conclusion. See, e.g., Fisher v. White, 715 F.Supp. 37, 10 42 (E.D.N.Y. 1989) (because state, not federal, law governs abuse of process claims, removal 11 was improper since the case did not “aris[e] under the Constitution, laws, or treaties of the 12 United States” under 28 U.S.C. § 1331); Eastern Industries, Inc. v. Joseph Ciccone & Sons, 13 Inc., 532 F. Supp. 726, 728 (E.D. Pa. 1982) (holding that court did not have jurisdiction over 14 abuse of process claim alleging improper conduct in a federal suit because there is no federal 15 common law claim for abuse of process (citing Wheeldin, 373 U.S. at 652); Port Drum Co. v.
 16 Umphey, 852 F.2 148, 149-50 (5th Cir. 1988) (holding that Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 is not a federal 17 law for purposes of section 1331 jurisdiction, but is “instead a regulator of a party’s 18 proceedings once that party is in federal court pursuant to another, independent jurisdictional 19 grant”).

20 Third, to the extent that Plaintiff is attempting to create federal question 21 jurisdiction through its cause of action for declaratory relief, Plaintiff fails again. “It is well 22 settled that the Declaratory Judgment Act does not itself confer federal subject matter 23 jurisdiction, but merely provides an additional remedy in cases where jurisdiction is 24 otherwise established.” Staacke v. U.S. Secretary of Labor, 841 F.2d 278, 280 (9th Cir. 1988) 25 (internal quotation marks and citations omitted); see also Skelly Oil Co. v. Phillips Petroleum 26 Co., 339 U.S. 667, 671 (1950) (“Congress [in enacting the Declaratory Judgment Act] 27 enlarged the range of remedies available in the federal courts but did not extend their 28 jurisdiction”); Vaden v. Discover Bank, 556 U.S. 49, 70 (2009) (Declaratory Judgment Act is “procedural only” and does not enlarge jurisdiction of federal courts). Accordingly, Plaintiff cannot create federal subject matter jurisdiction through his claim for declaratory relief.

B. Sanctions Are Warranted Because Plaintiff’s Claims Are Frivolous On the Merits.

Rule 11 provides that an attorney or party presenting a pleading to the Court certifies that “to the best of the person’s knowledge, information, and belief, formed after an inquiry reasonable under the circumstances,” that the claims are “warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for extending, modifying, or reversing existing law or for establishing new law.” Rule 11(b). “The reasonable inquiry test is meant to assist courts in discovering whether an attorney, after conducting an objectively reasonable inquiry into the facts and law, would have found the complaint to be well-founded.” Holgate v. Baldwin, 425 F.3d 671, 677 (9th Cir. 2005). The Second Amended Complaint falls far short of meeting this test: there is no cause of action for violating the federal rules; the claims are barred by the litigation privilege; and the claims are barred by the statute of limitations.

1. There is no private cause of action for violating Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Rules governing procedure in the federal courts do not give rise to private causes of action. See Living Designs, Inc. v. E.I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 431 F.3d 353, 372 (9th Cir. 2005), cert denied, 547 U.S. 1192 (2006) (Federal Rules of Civil Procedure do not create duties on which an opposing party may base a negligence claim); see also Cohen v. Lupo, 927 F.2 363, 365 (8th Cir. 1991) (no independent cause of action for Rule 11 violation); Hatch v. TIG Insurance Co., 301 F.3d 915, 918 (8th Cir. 2002) (rejecting misrepresentation claims based on alleged insurance coverage misstatements made by insurers to settle a separate underlying lawsuit); Good v. Khosrowshahi, 296 Fed. App’x 676, 680 (10th Cir. 2008) (in affirming dismissal of a cause of action for violating Fed. R. Civ. P. 5.2, stating “rules governing procedure in the federal courts do not give rise to private causes of action”); Digene Corp. v. Ventana Medical Systems, Inc., 476 F. Supp. 2d 444, 451-52 (D. Del. 2007) (dismissing claim of civil conspiracy to evade discovery obligations where the

1 parties failed to timely produce responsive documents “[b]ecause the Federal Rules of Civil 2 Procedure do not create a private cause of action”).

3 Here, Plaintiff’s First and Third Causes of Action rest on the theory that 4 Defendants abused the process of the federal courts when they filed the ex parte applications 5 for third-party subpoenas under 28 U.S.C. § 1782 but failed to serve the subpoenas on 6 Plaintiff in compliance with Rule 45 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure prior to serving 7 the subpoenaed third parties. See Second Am. Compl. ¶¶ 28-39, 46-50, 64-66. Because 8 Plaintiffs’ claims are premised on an alleged violation of a procedural rule, and no separate 9 cause of action exists under the law for such a violation, Plaintiff’s First and Third Causes of 10 Action fail as a matter of law. Any alleged violation of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 11 must be asserted through a motion in the underlying 28 U.S.C. § 1782 action, not through a 12 separate lawsuit. E.g., Handeen v. Lemaire, 112 F.3d 1339, 1345 n.8 (8th Cir. 1997) (“Rule 13 11 sanctions must be sought by motion in a pending case; there can be no independent cause 14 of action instituted for Rule 11 sanctions.”) (quoting Cohen v. Lupo, 927 F.2d 363, 365 (8th 15 Cir.), cert. denied, 502 U.S. 861 (1991)). And given the settled nature of the law precluding a 16 private right of action on the basis of an alleged violation of federal rules, had Plaintiff’s 17 counsel performed “reasonable and competent” legal research, he would have discovered that 18 no such claim exists.

19 2. Plaintiff’s claims are barred by the litigation privilege.

20 The litigation privilege, codified at Civil Code section 47, subdivision (b), 21 provides that a “publication or broadcast” made as part of a “judicial proceeding” is 22 privileged. This privilege is absolute in nature, applying “to all publications, irrespective of 23 their maliciousness.” Silberg v. Anderson, 50 Cal. 3d 205, 216 (1990). “The usual 24 formulation is that the privilege applies to any communication (1) made in judicial or quasi-25 judicial proceedings; (2) by litigants or other participants authorized by law; (3) to achieve 26 the objects of the litigation; and (4) that [has] some connection or logical relation to the 27 action.” Id. at 212 (citing Civ. Code § 47(b)). The privilege is intended to grant litigants and 28 other participants “the utmost freedom of access to the courts without fear of being harassed subsequently by derivative tort actions.”” Healy v. Tuscany Hills Landscape & Recreation Corp., 137 Cal. App. 4th 1, 5 (2006). In order to achieve this purpose of curtailing derivative suits, the litigation privilege is construed broadly and immunizes defendants from all tort liability except for malicious prosecution. Kenne v. Stennis, 230 Cal. App. 4th 953, 965 (2014). In federal courts, any doubt as to the applicability of California’s litigation privilege is resolved in favor of applying it. Morales v. Cooperative of American Physicians, Inc., Mut. Protection Trust, 180 F.3d 1060 (9th Cir. 1999).

Here, there is no question that Plaintiff’s claims are subject to the litigation privilege, as each claim is premised on wrongdoings that Defendants allegedly committed in connection with their representation of Fils in the ex parte § 1782 Application proceedings. See Second Am. Compl. ¶¶ 45-51 (abuse of process claim based on Defendants’ alleged failure to comply with Fed. R. Civ. P. 45 by not giving Plaintiff notice of the third-party subpoenas prior to serving them on the third parties); ¶¶ 55 (invasion of process claim based on Defendants’ subpoenaing documents intruding on Plaintiff’s private personal and financial affairs); ¶¶ 63-64 (claim for declaratory relief based on an alleged controversy as to whether Defendants were required to serve Plaintiff and/or his wife with the third-party subpoenas before serving them on the third-parties); and ¶¶ 68-69 (intentional infliction of emotional distress claim based on Defendants’ alleged engagement in “manipulating the court and the U.S. legal system to obtain Plaintiff’s highly personal and sensitive information on behalf of their client”).

The weight of authority supporting the dismissal of all claims on the basis of the litigation privilege is overwhelming. See, e.g., Blaha, 2015 WL 44776888, at *2-*3 (abuse of process claim alleging misconduct in obtaining subpoenas barred by the litigation privilege); Kenne, 230 Cal. App. 4th at 965 (claims for abuse of process, conspiracy and intentional infliction of emotional distress arising from defendants’ alleged conspiracy to file false complaints to obtain a TRO against plaintiff without good cause barred by the litigation privilege); JSJ Limited Partnership v. Mehrban, 205 Cal. App. 4th 1512, 1522 (2012) (landlord’s claim against restaurant patron for abuse of process, based on alleged “contriving”

1 of a new ADA lawsuit, allegedly in retaliation for landlord's successful defense in an earlier
 2 lawsuit, barred by the litigation privilege); G.R. v. Intelligator, 185 Cal. App. 4th 606, 619 3 (2010) (dismissal of husband's claim against wife's attorney for improper use of consumer 4 credit file and invasion of privacy on the basis of the litigation privilege affirmed).

5 On a related note, to the extent that Plaintiff is attempting to sidestep the reach 6 of the litigation privilege by claiming that the gravamen of his suit focuses on Defendants' 7 "noncommunicative conduct," i.e., "improperly mailing the subpoenas to the third parties 8 without notice to [Plaintiff] at any time," Plaintiff's argument fails. See Baldwin Decl. ¶ 3, 9 Ex. B at p. 3. The litigation privilege applies to all communicative acts related to litigation.
 10 See Rusheen v. Cohen, 37 Cal. 4th 1048, 1057 (2006) (communicative acts of filing allegedly 11 false declarations of service to improperly obtain a default judgment and post-judgment 12 enforcement efforts, including the application for writ of execution and acts of levying on 13 property, all protected by the litigation privilege). The communicative act of serving 14 subpoenas is just part and parcel of the right to petition courts for redress. See Flores v.
 15 Emerich & Fike, 416 F.Supp.2d 885, (E.D. Cal. 2006) (litigation privilege protected law firm 16 attorneys from tort liability for abuse of process for sending notice of client's security 17 interest); cf. Navellier v. Sletten, 106 Cal. App. 4th 763, 770 (2003) (pleadings "and process 18 in a case are generally viewed as privileged communications").

19 Given the body of case law supporting the dismissal of all claims on the basis 20 of the litigation privilege, no reasonable attorney would have found the Second Amended 21 Complaint to be well founded, and for that reason, Plaintiff and his counsel should be 22 sanctioned under Rule 11 for filing the frivolous complaint.

23 3. Plaintiff's claims are barred by the statute of limitations.

24 Filing a complaint that is barred by the statute of limitations subjects a plaintiff 25 to sanctions under Rule 11. See Mir v. Little Co. of Mary Hosp., 844 F.2d 646, 653 (9th Cir.
 26 1988) (Rule 11 sanctions affirmed in a case where all claims were time-barred). As discussed 27 below, Plaintiff discovered the facts constituting Defendants' alleged wrongful acts more than 28

1 one year prior to filing this complaint, and no statutory tolling provisions apply, Rule 11 2 sanctions are supported on that additional ground.

3 The claims against defendants, all attorneys or law firms, are subject to the 4 one-year statute of limitations set forth in Cal. Code of Civ. Pro. Section 340.6, which 5 sets forth the statute of limitations that applies to actions against attorneys for “a wrongful act 6 or omission, other than for actual fraud, arising in the performance of profession services.”
7 Code Civ. Proc. §340.6(a). That section applies broadly to any claim alleging an attorney’s 8 violation of professional obligations, “regardless of how those claims were styled.” Lee v.
9 Hanley, 61 Cal. 4th 1225, 1235 (2015). The one-year limitation period is not limited to 10 malpractice claims against attorneys. See, e.g., Connelly v. Bornstein, 33 Cal. App. 5th 783 11 (2019) (section 340.6, the one-year statute of limitations governing attorneys’ wrongful 12 professional acts or omissions, applied to malicious prosecution claim against attorneys who 13 performed professional services in the underlying litigation instead of the two-year statute of 14 limitations applicable to malicious prosecution claims against litigants). Since Plaintiff’s 15 allegations against Defendants center on their performance of legal services in connection 16 with the § 1782 Application proceedings (Second Am. Compl. ¶¶ 28-41, “Overview” at p. 2), 17 Section 340.6 clearly applies to those claims.

18 Section 340.6 provides that claims against attorneys must be brought “within 19 one year after the plaintiff discovers, or through the use of reasonable diligence should have 20 discovered, the facts constituting the wrongful act or omission . . .” Section 340.6(a).
21 Discovery for purposes of section 340.6 occurs when the plaintiff knows the material acts 22 constituting the alleged wrongful act, not when the client realizes that the acts constitute 23 professional negligence. Neel v. Magana, Olney, Levy, Cathcart & Gelfand, 6 Cal. 3d 176, 24 190 (1971); Peregrine Funding, Inc. v. Sheppard Mullin Richter & Hampton LLP, 133 Cal.
25 App. 4th 658, 685 (2005) (plaintiffs’ knowledge of the facts constituting the alleged wrongful 26 acts more than one year prior to filing complaint bars the claims). Section 340.6 sets forth 27 certain circumstances that toll the statute of limitations. Code Civ. Proc. § 340.6(a)(1)-(5).
28

1 In the § 1782 Application proceedings before the Northern and Central 2 Districts of California, Plaintiff's wife, Santa, submitted declarations attesting that, on March 3 25, 2021, she became aware of the subpoenas issued in the Northern District on March 25, 4 2021, after Plaintiff ran a Google search of his name. RJN, Ex. 4 at p. 3, Ex. 5 at p. 3. Upon 5 becoming aware of these subpoenas, Plaintiff himself contacted the subpoenaed third-parties 6 and learned from one such entity that the subpoena "was signed by attorney Joseph Ashby 7 and sent from his office with the knowledge that the subpoenas were being served on third 8 parties prior to service to [Santa]." RJN, Ex. 4 at p. 3, Ex. 5 at p. 3. Santa further attested 9 that she became aware of the remaining subpoenas around June 3, 2021, when Fils submitted 10 information received from the subpoenas in the Latvian Proceedings. Id. Thus, by June 3, 11 2021, at the very latest, Plaintiff had inquiry notice that triggered the commencement of the 12 one-year limitations period. See Genisman v. Carley, 29 Cal. App. 5th 45, 50 (2018) 13 ("Inquiry notice exist[s] where 'the plaintiffs have reason to at least suspect that a type of 14 wrongdoing has injured them.'" (quoting Fox v. Ethicon Endo-Surgery, Inc., 35 Cal. 4th 797, 15 807 (2005))). None of the tolling factors set forth in the statute applies. Because Plaintiff 16 waited until January 2023—more than one year from June 3, 2021—to bring this suit, his 17 claims are time-barred. Notably, since Plaintiff alleges that he was harmed by Defendants' 18 execution of the subpoenas, there is no basis to find tolling on the ground that he did not 19 sustain actual injury, the only provision that would potentially apply under the facts. See, 20 e.g., Second Am. Compl. ¶¶ 50-52, 55-59, 69.

21 Plaintiff's filing of the time-barred lawsuit, and continuing to press his claims 22 after being informed by Defendants that those claims were time-barred, independently 23 supports Rule 11 sanctions. See Baldwin Decl., ¶ 3, Ex. B at 3 (plaintiff counsel's contention 24 that the one-year statute of limitations is inapplicable "as it applies to a legal malpractice 25 claim against an attorney," despite being provided with authority, Connelly, 33 Cal. App. 5th 26 at 799, in which the statute was applied to a non-client's suit for malicious prosecution 27 against former opponent's attorney (see Baldwin Decl., ¶ 2, Ex. A at 4)). This is particularly 28 true here, when Plaintiff's counsel previously filed motions on behalf of Santa in the underlying 28 U.S.C. § 1782 Application proceedings that were denied based on the one-year limitations period found in Rule 60(c). See RJN, Ex. 9 at pp. 2-5, Ex. 11 at pp. 4-5, Ex. 12 at pp. 3-5.

C. Sanctions Are Warranted Because the Second Amended Complaint Was Filed for An Improper Purpose.

A separate ground for Rule 11 sanctions is that Plaintiff filed this action for an “improper purpose, such as to harass, cause unnecessary delay, or needlessly increase the cost of litigation.” (Rule 11(b)(1)). Plaintiff and his attorneys here make essentially the same claims his wife (represented by the same counsel) unsuccessfully made in three filings before two courts, in a forum that lacks jurisdiction and in the form of causes of action that have no legal basis. All of these circumstances support the inference that Plaintiff’s complaint was filed for an improper purpose that supports the imposition of Rule 11 sanctions.

The standard governing whether a party filed a pleading for an improper purpose is objective. Townsend, 929 F.2d at 1362. “A district court confronted with solid evidence of a pleading’s frivolousness may in circumstances that warrant it infer that it was filed for an improper purpose.” Id. at 1365; see also Huettig & Schromm, Inc. v. Landscape Contractors Council of Nor. Cal., 790 F.2d 1421, 1427 (9th Cir. 1986). “If counsel willfully files a baseless complaint, a court may properly infer that it was filed either for purposes of harassment, or some purpose other than to vindicate rights through the judicial process.” In re Kunstler, 914 F.2d 505, 519 (4th Cir. 1990). The court may consider a broad range of circumstances in making a determination as to improper purpose. “Circumstantial facts surrounding the filing may also be considered as evidence of the signer’s purpose. Repeated filings, the outrageous nature of the claims made, or a signer’s experience in a particular area of law, . . . are all appropriate indicators of an improper purpose.” In re Kunstler, 914 F.2d at 519 (circumstances considered as a whole, including fact that plaintiff held press conference to announce lawsuit, supported conclusion of improper purpose).

As set forth in detail herein, Plaintiff and his counsel chose to persist in prosecuting a frivolous complaint after Defendants’ counsel brought the clear deficiencies to 1 their attention and gave them the opportunity to withdraw the pleading. Baldwin Decl., Ex.

 2 A. Plaintiff and his counsel make the same argument as to lack of service that Plaintiff's wife 3 made, unsuccessfully, in two separate courts through three prior motions. RJN, Exs. 6-8.
 4 Despite overwhelming authority that there is no stand-alone cause of action for violation of 5 the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Plaintiff's counsel did not seek relief on behalf of 6 Plaintiff through motions in the underlying 28 U.S.C. § 1782 actions because he knew they 7 would be denied for the same reasons as Santa's motions. Moreover, while Plaintiff was not 8 a party to the prior proceedings, Plaintiff here seeks relief both for himself and his wife 9 through his declaratory relief cause of action, despite the fact that she is not a party hereto.
 10 (Second Am. Compl., ¶¶ 63-33.) Lastly, Plaintiff himself issued a press release on March 1, 11 2023, after Defendants' counsel had alerted Plaintiff's counsel of the deficiencies in the 12 complaint, announcing (falsely) that he had sued "the London-based global law firm 13 Eversheds Sutherland for misrepresenting information to the Federal Courts throughout the 14 US in order to wrongfully obtain Bernhal's private information on behalf of client, 15 millionaire Olegs Fils." Baldwin decl., ¶ 4, Ex. C. Under All of these circumstances, this 16 Court may properly infer Plaintiff's improper purpose in filing the present complaint in 17 violation of Rule 11, and should do so.

18 V. CONCLUSION

19 For the foregoing reasons, Defendants request that this Court issue Rule 11 20 sanctions against Plaintiff and his attorneys in an amount that compensates Defendants for 21 their legal fees and costs incurred in bringing this motion.
